WHY QWICKLY?

Trevecca Nazarene University has seen steady enrollment growth since its opening in 1901. From day one, its mission has remained firm in encouraging students to “grow intellectually, socially, emotionally, physically, and spiritually.” To accomplish this, the school sought out options to enhance student success, especially in the rising and thriving age of the internet.

SOLUTIONS

LaMetrius Daniels, Ph.D., recognized that with the growth of admissions, came growth in classroom sizes. Especially with implementing online learning, it became crucial for educators to keep track of who was attending class or not. In addition, educators were looking for a way to mark any excused absences, making sure students were not marked unfairly should they have a reason/explanation for not showing up to class for the day. During her search for a solution, Daniels kept in mind four critical qualifications: cost, tech support, reporting function, and simplicity for staff to set up. In Spring 2016, word reached her about Qwickly Attendance, and the chance for an affordable solution to the institution’s dilemma presented itself!

SOLUTIONS (CONT.)

As an added bonus, Qwickly's development team kept in communication with Daniels and the school from the moment they began working together. Daniels was appreciative that the development team was easy to get into contact with and dependable. "Hands down, that was one of the reasons that I actually pushed for us to work with Qwickly," she explained, "just because the support was so responsive, so attentive, they make sure it's working as it's supposed to."

IMPACT

After using Qwickly Attendance Classic for a couple of years, staff found it tremendously easier to check if students were absent from scheduled classes, mark excused absences for student athletes, and additionally mark tardiness. Based on this positive feedback, Daniels decided to upgrade to Qwickly Attendance Pro in order to enhance both attendance-taking functionality and review enterprise reporting. Appreciative of how customizable Qwickly Attendance Pro is and how the tool is constantly adapting and upgrading, the college continues to stay on track with student attendance and has expressed wanting to continue using Qwickly Attendance Pro in the future. As Qwickly's options grow more and more, Daniels expressed interest in training their staff on any new developments Qwickly has to offer.

"Using [Qwickly Attendance Pro] has made it tremendously easier to check if students are consistently attending class."
